

Course: Classroom Management Solutions for Teachers: New Methodologies, Effective Motivation, Cooperation and Evaluation Strategies

Participant: Czeller András

Date: 2021.08.02-07.

Country: Italy, Florence

The course that I participated was organized by Europass Teachers's Academy, located in Florence.

Originally I chose another course but due to Covid pandemic, I had to modify my plan. After the hard time of online education, I wanted to take a „live” course at first place, that works with communicative approach. The course, named Flipped Learning, is student focused combining the parts of digital and presence education using IT tools.

The participants represented five countries, forming an international team. Different nations met in one classroom, creating a unique community. We could get to know new methods of classroom education, efficient motivating techniques, cooperative work and self assessment strategies.

The system itself is about the modification of learning process and classroom time, focusing on students' need. Flipped Learning method gets students more involved and puts precious classroom time to good use where everyone, not just the teacher, participates.

Flipped Classroom is all about flipping the order of how learning time structured. The advantages of using Flipped Learning: students become more engaged and receive more personal attention from the instructor, they work on content and become more responsible for learning content.

I think, the knowledge I could acquire is really useful and can be built into our schools's teaching-learning process.

Our course also included an all day guided sightseeing tour around Florence. We were amazed at the picturesque Tuscan landscape and the miracle of medieval culture and architecture.
